Motion To Remove Harland From V-P Spot Fails

The Crawford County Board of Commissioners, Tuesday, defeated a motion by John Miller to remove Vice-chairperson Mary Harland from office and replace her with William

The action was suggested prior to the motion by Chairman Garland (Bud) Joyce. After the motion was made Joyce refused to permit discussion on it citing rules of parliamen-

The motion was defeated on a four to three voice ballot. Commissioners Harland, Jeannette Kitchen, Larry Mattis and Ruddy voted no. Commissioners Miller, Joyce and Earl Ruddy had no comment when he was asked if he would have accepted the nomination.

Harland said, "I am shocked that action recommended by Chairman Joyce, action of such great magnitude concerning myself, that the courtesy of speaking to me was not given."

Joyce in his prepared statement urging the action said, "a primary concern is a continuing gap in the understanding between the chair and vice-chair." He also said, "It is unfortunately a fact that the necessary cooperation and cohesion between the positions is lacking.'

Mattis said that he felt there were too many personalities being involved in commission discussions. He said, "We are not concentrating on doing what we promised the people out there we would do."

Racers Pairing Up for Shot At $25,000 Marathon Money

Fourteen professional or "expert" entries are in already for the 40th Annual AuSable Marathon, but most of the talk is about the pairings not yet officially entered. Steve Southard, of Ray's Canoe Livery, says Butch Stockton, winner of the last five marathons, is expected to team with Solomon Carriere this year. The two teamed up in 1984 to win the marathon and set the all-time record at 14 hours, 20 minutes,

Southard also says Serge Corbin, regarded as the top paddler in North America, wants to team up with Brett Stockton, four-time winner of the marathon. Brett Stockton is currently racing in Europe and is expected back around July

Bruce Barton may team up with Tim Tribeold and Eric McNett may team up with Tony Short. Steve Landick and Randy Drake may be paddling together. Drake and McNett finished second last year and had the fourth fastest marathon time ever. Barton is a top paddler, Landick has raced the marathon several times finishing near the top, and Short finished second in 1984 in the sixth fastest time ever. Local paddlers Mark Kolka and Minard Harwood are teamed together and Dave Shepherd is expected to race with Jim Harwood. Eric Swander and Todd VanDeVen are local entries in the amateur race.

Women paddlers Lynne Witte and Nancy Shelhorse are expected back for another marathon.

Summer Tax Bill Reflects Change in School Collection

The change to 100 percent summer collection of Crawford AuSable School District taxes caused some area taxpayers to question their summer tax notices mailed out the first of July. The Crawford AuSable School District has not increased its millage from last year. The difference in the summer tax bill this year reflects a change to 100 percent collection in the summer.

Last year, the school district collected 50 percent of its taxes in the summer and 50 percent in the winter. This year the Crawford AuSable district is collecting 100 percent in the summer and 0 percent in the winter.

The change to 100 percent summer collection, which was well publicized last winter, was expected at the time to earn the district about $70,000, Because of a recent IRS ruling which prevented the county from borrowing money to pay off delinquent taxes, the school district is expecting to only earn about $30,000 this year because of the switch to 100 summer collection.

Hospital, County Both Seek DNR Property

By Don Geiss

A recent meeting in Roscommon between Department of Natural Resources representatives and officials from Crawford County, Grayling and Mercy Hospital to discuss the distribution of the local field office property ended in an apparent conflict about the future ownership of the headquarters build-

The meeting was called by the DNR after it became known that money had been appropriated to construct a new field office further north of Grayling. The meeting came about after Crawford County Commissioner Mary Harland wrote to State Rep. Ralph Ostling asking for his assistance in obtaining the property for nature trails, primitive campsites and for use by the Grayling Fish Hatchery Committee.

An invitation to the meeting went out to all of the units of government and the hospital. The hospital was invited because some years ago when it was first thought possible that the land would become available, they spoke out at local governmental meetings about obtaining the high ground along Michigan Avenue.

During the course of the meeting, according to county Commissioner Jeannette Kitchen, a hospital official expressed an interest in not only the high ground but also in the area along the East Branch of the Au-Sable River including the headquarters building. In the earlier discussions about the land, the Fish Hatchery Committee indicated that they would like to obtain the building to use as an interpretive museum and an environmental center.

Kitchen said that when the conflicting interests became apparent, the DNR officials suggested that local parties hold a separate meeting and decide for themselves just who should ask for what land.

The county commissioners have expressed an interest in using the land north of North Down River Road for the nature trails and primitive campsites. The city has an interest in protecting the property from uses that would endanger a water well located Kitchen said that the hospital is asking for the additional property with an objective of having a substance abuse residence. The Fish Hatchery Committee, an arm of the Crawford County government, has since the beginning of negotiations for the property asked for the building for its interpretive center. In her letter to Ostling, Harland said that she believed the smaller buildings along Michigan Avenue could accommodate a youth conservation corp or Michigan Conservation Corp work site.

Harland said in her letter to Ostling, "We are proud of the Grayling Fish Hatchery. It is now the largest tourist attraction in Crawford County." Fish Hatchery Committee Chairman Bob Smock attended the DNR meeting and expressed again the interest in the building.

Kitchen said that the suggestion of the DNR officials will be accepted and a meeting called between the concerned parties.

NRC Approves AuSable Natural River Plan

By Don Geiss

The Natural Resources Commission at their monthly meeting last Friday, voted to place the AuSable River and its tributaries under the state natural River Plan.

The decision means that the county and its townships must adopt the provisions of the plan into their zoning and green belt ordinances or face the prospect of a state appointed Zoning Board.

According to Douglas Carter, Department of Natural Resources, Natural River program chief, the Zoning Boards will continue to operate much the same as they have in the past if the new regulations are adopted by the units of government. If they are not adopted, the DNR will appoint a board which will have one state representative on

Carter indicated in earlier community meetings that despite the regulations, variances will be permitted much as they are presently but too many variances will cause the state to step in and halt them. The new rules include restrictions on minimum river frontage for building, industrial buildings, building setbacks, docks, on-site sanitation systems, signs, soil erosion and sediment control measures and mineral exploration.

The draft also includes statements on policy toward utilities, agriculture, disposal of solid wastes, stream alteration, land alteration and natural vegetation. Additional provisions cover recreation, fishing, hunting, trapping and administration of the prohibition of filling any land that is within six feet of the water table but after many objections by citizens it was changed to no filling within four feet of the water table. Another serious concern was that the wording in the plan was not strong enough in the section dealing with the state's opposition to any takeover by the federal government. Although it had been pointed out that the "feds" could take over despite any objection from the state, stronger wording against the idea was incorporated in the final draft.

Most of the other eight changes that were made in the revision of the plan were only those in wording for clarification.

Dan Alstott, of the North Branch Property Owners Association, said the association was upset the NRC did not move the natural river designation on the North Branch all the way to the headwaters at Otsego Lake as his group had requested. Instead the natural river designation goes to Ski Shore Drive in the Michaywe development.

Alstott also said the group wasn't happy with the NRC decision to allow some military activities on the river through a permit system. He called the decision a sell-out to the military and questioned how well a permit system will work toward protecting the

When the NRC discussed the plan at last month's meeting only one person attended that spoke against the plan while many favored it and even wanted it extended further to the headwaters of the tributaries. The action last week will now force local governmental units to comply with the state mandate or face direct state control over zoning.

AuSable Guild Hosts Top-Rated Quilt Show

One of the best quilt shows in the state will be held at the Icehouse July 23-26 during Milltown. Around two thousand people are expected to attend the 6th annual quilt show held 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily at 509 Norway St. in Grayling.

The show will feature 75 quilts, wallhangings, and quilted items. Some of the items will be on sale but if they are sold, they must remain on display until the end of the show.

Two nationally known quilters will conduct classes and workshops during the show. Betty Boyink, who has written several books and travels throughout the country teaching, will teach two workshops on quilting and lead a lecture. Madonna Ferguson, author and artist from Lansing, will teach stenciling during the show.

New this year to the show will be a $1 admission fee to cover the cost of the show.

The first three quilt shows were sponsored by Jill Wyman, the owner of the Icehouse, and Marion Welsh. The fourth and fifth shows and this year's show are sponsored by the AuSable Quilt Guild, which has grown to also be one of the best in the state.

The guild boasts 35 members who come from as far away as Ann Arbor, Cheboygan, Traverse City, and Atlanta for weekly meetings at the Icehouse.

"The AuSable Quilt Guild is becoming well recognized in the state," said guild president Jane Duvall, of Atlanta. "We're picking up new members from as far away

What's the attraction of the AuSable Quilt Guild? To start with, it's the Icehouse store, where the group meets in a second story

"It's fabulous. You have to travel a long way to find a store that compares with this one," said Jane Adams, a guild member. "This is an inspired, devoted group," said Ruth Steffe, another guild member. "We have incredible attendance."

"This is becoming a special group known for its fine hard work," said Sharon Huss.

"You can see the artistry involved," said Steffe. "This is a major part of some people's life." One of the special benefits of belonging to the AuSable Quilt Guild is a Friendship Quilt. At certain meetings all the members will work on a pattern and give the blocks to one person who combines them for a Friendship Quilt. Another benefit of the guild are the workshops and classes by well-known artists. The guild calendar is filled with special workshops and classes. Many guild members spend as many as 300 hours for quilting an item. But the work of a quilter lives on for many to see. As Jane Duvall put it, "It's like planting a tree. You don't do it for yourself -- you do it for future generations."

Bear Archery Finishes Display for Local Museum

By Don Geiss

The Bear Archery Company has reached out from its home in Gainesville, Florida, to weave a history of its stay in Crawford County by displaying the story of its business life here in the local Historical Museum.

Last week Bear Archery Customer Relations and Museum Director Frank Scott, a long time resident here, returned with boxes of photographs, bows and arrows manufactured here and historical artifacts. It was all predesigned to fit a 12-foot by 12-foot room on the second floor of the museum and tell the story of Bear's relationship with the local community.

Scott said that last summer he visited here for a time to look over the facility and determine how to tell the story. At that time he arranged for a contractor to panel the walls and generally prepare the room for the company display. He said that the room was also measured so that the historical story could be designed at the home office and appropriate materials selected.

And now the second floor of the museum is one step closer to opening as its many other rooms dedicated to special historical aspects of local life are also nearing completion.

According to museum director Bob Ruddy, those displays will be ready for viewing during the Milltown Festival, July. 23-26.

Help For Alcoholism and Drug Abuse Offered in Grayling

The Bishop's Task Force on Alcoholism and Drug Abuse is presenting an educational series of films and discussions on the disease of addiction by some of the area's most qualified professionals at Mercy Hospital in Grayling. The series will begin Wednesday, July 22nd, at 7:30 p.m. and features a Fr. Martin film followed by a discussion directed by Ray Ellison and Shelly Maiorana. The series will run each Wednesday for six consecutive weeks.

Anyone interested in learning about alcoholism and drug addiction is encouraged to attend. For information regarding the series or the Bishop's Task Force contact Fr. Jim Mausolf or Mark Bugajski at St. Mary's rectory in Grayling, (348-7291).

— THANKS —

From The Grayling Youth Booster Club

The Grayling Youth Booster Club thanks the community for the excellent support of the July 4th festivities. Without the generous donations from our merchants and individuals we could not finance these activities. Our major expenditure was approximately $6000 for fireworks. Preliminary figures indicate that we have covered this cost.

We are especially grateful to the Michigan National Guard, the Camp Grayling Commander and civilian and military camp staff. Without their cooperation and assistance the fireworks display could not have been held.

Approximately 1350 vehicles entered the camp and an estimated 4700 people watched the display from the beach area. An estimated 200 boats with about 1000 people observed the fireworks from the lake. We appreciate the efficient and professional manner in which crowd control was conducted by the sheriff's department, volunteer auxiliary sheriff's officers and the local CB radio club.

We also want to express a big thank you to the Grayling Viking high school band, and Dennis Ormsbee for getting the band members time off from their jobs to participate in the parade

And a big thanks to anyone who helped in any way to make our July 4th a nice and safe one.

The Great Trash Hunt a couple of weeks ago was partially successful. One of the persons connected with a pile of trash in the woods north of Mobile Home Estates did a nice job of cleaning up one area. He made a simple mistake in dumping the trash there. but he corrected it and no one can find fault with that.

The other person connected with some of the trash may have picked up a couple of bags but a huge pile remained.

The fact that some of the trash has been cleaned up is a result of efforts by Crawford County Prosecuting Attorney John Huss. He's trying a new approach on litter in the woods. Although names and addresses among the garbage do not prove who dumped the trash, it does indicate whose trash it Huss says the litter law states anyone depositing or leaving trash is violating the law. Once Huss notifies the person their trash has been dumped illegally, it is up to the person to remove the trash or he is in violation of the law.

Huss notified the two persons connected with trash on state land north of Mobile Home Estates by having the sheriff dept. deliver a boxed sample of their garbage along with a letter. The prosecuting attorney gave them five days to clean up their trash. Both persons called Huss to say they would be picking the trash up. Huss is going to check with the one person and tell him he must clean up the entire pile of trash where his trash was found.

Some people have told me they don't think the newspaper should say anything about names on garbage being a way to nail violators. They feel violators will now just rip names off the garbage and dump it in the woods.

They may be right. On the other hand, informing people who care about stopping illegal dumping can help. I know now that if I find trash dumped in the woods, there's a good chance the violators will have to remove it if they left their names on the garbage. I hope some other people know this now as well.

I also wonder how many illegal dumpers are going to take the time to remove names and addresses off all their garbage. This could take longer than taking it to a township transfer station or the county landfill.

I also don't think a lot of illegal dumpers are going to read this column. So we'll try to sneak this information past them. If you catch an illegal dumper in the act, write the license plate number down and call the DNR Conservation Officer, 348-6371, or the sheriff dept., 348-6341.

If you don't catch the illegal dumper in the act but find a pile of trash on public property, check for names and addresses. If you find several pieces of trash with the same name, call the county prosecutor, 348-2841. There's a good chance the violators will have to clean the trash up.

Once again the Avalanche is fortunate to have a special column for this page. This week features a return of Whitey Madsen's

I am visiting you from the Crawford County jail. This is the hardest thing I have ever experienced in my life. And it is my first time, but I was guilty and did not depend on "daddy" to help me out. I am doing my punishment. These are crying, thinking and praying times. I know that I shall never pass this way again.

The reason for this letter is I want to commend the correctional officers and make known of the fine job they do. With understanding that being in jail equals the loss of a loved one and I believe worse, they have had guidance and compassion in my stay here. It is still hard but bearable.

From Our Corner...

By popular demand from our five readers, the ol' fella will attempt to revive the "turkey", and update those interested on how our den progressed since we joined the nonworking class...

First of all, we must say this is quite strange to us...this is the first time we have eye balled a typewriter since the last week of October 1986... and we must say, this typewriter doesn't think and spell anymore than the last time we put the turkey together...

Back to the den...we deeply regret to inform our readers that we are not sitting in our den at this time...we are down at the office just like we did for over 15 years...

We have had some progress in the clean out of the den...we now can see the top of our desk...a portion of the davenport is in sight...four boxes have been removed...we found our typewriter case uncovered, (hopefully the typewriter is in the case)...

So, there has been some progress... BUT, before the complete transition from a catch all to a den. much stuff has to be thrown away...

I have heard the saying, "If you haven't used things in 10 years, throw it away," I'm sure there is stuff in the den we have had for 15 years... the problem is, our bride has to reread every magazine she has kept to make sure there isn't a recipe she overlooked...

Maybe, just maybe, someday I will have a den where I can escape to and not be bothered by the ludicrous people who are against everything in our environment...

I'm sure, some would bitch if they were hung by a new rope...

I agree with Mike Delp's UpNorth column that appeared in the Avalanche on the demise of Northern Lower Michigan...but, it is not the native who has turned the area into a semi-asphalt jungle...it is the one's who have moved here and now want: to live in their own little sanctuary and rile up their counterparts...

We came to Grayling 41 years ago and it was a quiet little community... it was because of that we decided to stay and raise our family here ... a decision I have never regretted...

We also knew that the Michigan Army National Guard had preceded us by some 30 odd years...we accepted the fact, even though we had spent nearly four years of our life in a like uniform...

We also accepted the fact that military personnel at times will disrupt our lifestyle...we accepted the fact training of soldiers has to be done to protect our country...

We figured if we couldn't put up! with a few months of the year for the Guard to train here, then it was up to us to move on, possibly to the Upper Peninsula...but then, I'm sure in 10 years the move would be into Canada to escape the evils of ones tranquility...

On the subject of golf...the ol' fella stands on the Fifth...we would like to mention this...the first day I went over to the course, I had to swear on the Bible that I would not pray for rain on the golf course...that doesn't include our forests...

This column has been fun, that is, knowing I don't have to come to work Monday morning, and I will recommend retirement to anyone...

That takes care of this turkey... goodnight T.J., Stefany and Amber...plan on being in Grayling for the? Milltown Festival, July 23-24-25-26...

Almanack

Sen. Riegle Way Ahead Already

THERE'S A SEAT in the United States Senate from Michigan up for grabs next year - but you'd hardly know it from all the pushing and shoving of candidates trying to get into the race. The point is there is virtually no pushing and shoving among potential candidates, which is rather unusual.

There's a reason for that really, there are roughly two million reasons for the political quiet.

SEN. DONALD RIEGLE now occupies the seat up for decision next year and — although in the peculiar game of political posturing, he has not yet formally announced his intentions - he's a shoo-in for renomination by the Democrats for the asking.

On the other side of the fence, not a single Republican has announced for the Riegle seat, and only one well-known Republican has evinced more than a passing interest in the challenge.

Spencer Abraham of Lansing, who is the Republican state party chairman, is considering the race against Riegle. Mr. Abraham, a long-time political activist, is a lawyer by training, but rarely practices law, choosing instead either to teach law, or to practice politics.

But beyond Mr. Abraham, the horizon is rather clear at the moment. Of course, that could change — and no doubt, it will change.

WHERE ARE THE other so-called logical Republican candidates for the U.S. Senate, which is one of the most coveted elective offices in the world?

Jack Lousma, the former astronaut who ran against Sen. Carl Levin in 1984 and lost, would be a logical candidate. Mr. Lousma is rather coy in his approach to 1988 so far not much is known of his intentions.

The top Republican voices in the state legislature are other usually potential candidates. But so far, no interest has been publicly evinced by such as Sen. John Engler of Mt. Pleasant or Rep. Paul Hillegonds of Holland, the two Republican leaders in Lansing, or by any of their lientenants.

The 1986 state Republican ticket should be a good bet to turn up a 1988 statewide candidate. But Bill Lucas, who ran for governor, has shown no interest, nor has Colleen Engler, who ran for lieutenant governor. And Brooks Patterson, Oakland County Prosecutor, who usually runs for something, doesn't seem to be budging toward a race against Sen. Riegle either.

Of course, as noted above, all this could change, and very likely will.

BUT THERE ARE two million reasons why the race against Sen. Riegle is not very enticing for Republican hopefuls, and there's a dollar sign in front of each of them.

A recent news story reports that Sen. Riegle already has raised $2,179,669 for his 1988 reelection bid, although he hasn't even announced yet and he has no idea who his opponent might be. That total was raised as of April 22 — about a year and a half before the election.

Now, any Republican candidate who gets into the race at this point, is starting at least $2 million behind Sen. Riegle in fund-

And that doesn't take into account the enormous natural advantage any incumbent enjoys because of being in office in the first place - staff, research, contacts, publicity, offices in various parts of the state, regular visits back home at taxpayers' expense (for official business, of course), and on and on and on.

FRANKLY, RUNNING into the Riegle buzzsaw is not an inviting opportunity for potential Republican candidates, and Spencer Abraham may be able to have the nomination for the asking.

As to winning against Riegle, that's another story. Mr. Abraham is a political figure, and has no natural base of support except that partisan base from which to begin. That's not very broad. Historically, the candidates of strictly partisan figures which Mr. Abraham is - are not very suc-

The political clock is running. Republican candidates better get started soon. Lightning could strike any candidacy. Next year is a presidential election year, which will have an effect of some kind on Michigan's election. And any candidate for public office has a chance to win. But as of now, it looks like Sen. Donald Riegle again - in a landslide.

Michigan Press Association Michigan was officially designated as the "host" state by other participants in a seven-state Midwest Interstate Low-Level Radioactive Waste Commission. All the six other states in the compact voted to designate Michigan while the state's representative, David Hales, voted to designate Ohio as the host for a disposal site which would begin accepting such designated wastes by 1993, the date set by and South Carolina - to stop accepting wastes from other states. Michigan has been the odds-on favorite for the designation since a volunteer state did not come forward to accept the site under a projected $2 million annual economic federal law allowing the three current waste sites — in the states of Washington, Nevada incentives program. Delegates from the other six states — Minnesota, Ohio, Iowa, Indiana, Missouri and Wisconsin - said they gave their heaviest consideration to the volume and radioactivity level of each state's wastes, categories in which Michigan far exceeded the other states.

Hales said he gave top consideration to transportation in selecting Ohio.

Hales, a former resource management professor at the University of Michigan, said Michigan took a different approach to the weighing of factors.

"Michigan felt that its primary concern was the safety to people, to critters, to the environment on which we all depend," he said.

He added, however, that under the criteria selected by the compact previously, there was no other choice but Michigan. "The other states played by the rules as the rules were laid out," he noted.

Hales said Michigan would continue to work with the compact states to make sure all concerns are met. He said the compact has been developing a set of concerns with the federal policy.

Among the concerns expressed, he noted, were liability questions of the facility over the life of the wastes being placed there, to guarantee the revenue flow is sufficient to properly monitor the facility, and there is sufficient protections in federal laws to guarantee the responsibility of the facility does not fall back completely upon the taxpayers of the state.

Prior to selecting a host state, compact members adopted a resolution sponsored by Hales, urging a national meeting involving all compacts and host states to discuss the 1980 Federal Low-Level Radioactive Waste Policy Act.

He said both Congress and states have to take an affirmative responsibility to assume leadership in the area.

Michigan currently generates about 33 percent of the approximate 200,000 cubic feet of low level waste in the region each year, followed by Minnesota and Ohio at about 22 and 19 percent, respectively.

The state, however, fell "somewhere in the middle" of the seven states in transportation distance and safety as the state's major generation sites are located near state borders in the southeastern and southwestern portions of the state.

A comprehensive incentives and compensation package continues to be developed to extend benefits to the state and community in which the first facility is located. Such incentives would include a mix of initial grants, on-going payments, special funds and commitments to a degree of local control and monitoring of the facility.

Disposal alternatives for low-level wastes resulting from the use of radioactive materials in medicine, research, industrial production, consumer goods and nuclear power plants in the region include improved shallow land burial, above and below ground vaults, above and below ground modular concrete canister disposal, earth mounded concrete bunkers, use of new and existing mined cavities and augered holes.

Under a timetable set by the interstate commission, the selected host state would have to have completed a siting plan with application for licensing being submitted to the Nuclear Regulatory Commission by

The regional facility would then begin operations by January, 1993, to correspond with the date the Washington, Nevada and South Carolina sites may refuse to accept low-level radioactive wastes at their sites.

Kids Fishing Contest - Good or Bad

By Don Geiss

Recently we learned that the local chapter of Trout Unlimited has pulled out of the cosponsorship of the Kid's Fishing Contest during the Milltown Festival. The reason, we have been told is because they do not want to support fishing contests.

Apparently that move is an effort to discourage the idea of contests to be connected with the sport and encourage the idea of fishing simply for the love of it. We agree with that idea when it comes to those widely publicized bass fishing contests where a given lake becomes overrun with guvs maneuvering specialized fishing boats to get more and bigger bass than the other competitors.

Our dislike of that type of overkill of the sport is great and we vow never to back such a "hog" event.

Now let's talk about contests which encourage fishing and give that little extra bragging ability to an angler who catches a big fish. We all know that the fisherman is thrilled with that big one and would like to brag to the world about it. We see nothing wrong with a contest that gives the person a little extra bragging room.

There may be a problem with the contest though if it covers a very short period of time as do the bass contests and are pointed at a small lake that will not stand the overfishing. As we see it most of the regular contests are ones where the angler happens to catch a fish that is eligible and then gets a 🕴 chance to brag a little. It is not one where the people fight over who launches a boat first or where someone catches a string of fish the day before and hides them in the Now specifically to the Kid's Fishing Contest — Fish are purchased from a hatchery and planted just before the contest begins. They are expressly used for the enjoyment: of kids and have no impact on any native; population.

We remember the days that we took our kids fishing and felt very badly when the little guys and gals caught nothing. We hoped! it would not turn them off on the sport. We: looked for places where they could catch?

something — anything, even a turtle. The contest gives the kids that opportunity and that big chance to brag about the catch. Frankly, it is a pleasure to sit and watch the grin on those faces when they bring in a trout.

Can't we remember when we were kids? Must everything be held in such high ethics; that the thrill of a kid catching a fish is for-

The Marine Safety Act sets forth "Rules of the Road" for the operation of motor boats within the state. The rules are designed to prevent collisions and are pretty much universal throughout the country. Anyone who operates a motor boat should be aware of them.

The law states that whenever vessels are being operated in such a manner that a collision is imminent or likely, the following rules apply:

(1) when 2 vessels are approaching head on or nearly so, they are to pass on port (left) side of the other. (in land lubber terms - keep right).

which are the size of large peas. The young are fed by vigorous pumping of food from the adults stomach.

The diminutive hummer can not only hover, but it can fly backward and upside down. In flight the wings beat in a figure eight pattern - down and forward, then up and back. In forward flight propulsion is generated on the downstroke, but lift is generated by both the down and up strokes. When a hummer hovers, the body and wings tilt toward the vertical. This position allows the wings to supply lift but not propulsion. Why does a hummer hum? Mostly because it can fly fifty-five miles an hour.

Cincinnati Reds Look At Area Baseball Stars

By Don Geiss

Cincinnati Reds Chief Scout Gene Bennett put pro hopefuls through their paces at the Grayling High School Athletic Field last Saturday.

The coach met with about for this year." 100 young men representing amateur leagues and a large number of high schools in northern Michigan. Players from Pine River, Oscoda. Grayling, Cadillac and Gaylord were among those recognized by their uni-

Bennett and six assistants watched and, in many cases, coached the young men with tips gained from years of experience. They worked the players through a series of tests including speed races over a 60 yard course and pitcher and catcher drills. They also tested the men in abilities at throwing out a runner from the outfield and batting.

Bennett said that if any excellent prospects are found the management will keep in close contact and eventually invite the player to Cincinnati's Riverfront Stadium for a tryout. He said, "Six tryouts were conducted in Michigan and this one will be

Shortened Canoe Marathon Open To Kids Ages 11-17

Carlisle Canoe Livery will sponsor the annual Kids Canoe Race again this year on Friday, July 24th, the day before the annual canoe marathon. This race gives youngsters chance to race in a shortened version of the AuSable Canoe Marathon.

Carlisle Canoes will again allow the participants to use rental canoes for practice runs at no charge, on weekdays only. The participants are responsible for their own pick-up of the canoes for the practice runs. Carlisle Canoes will not make pickups without charge. Permission slips must be signed to be in the race. Kids can pick them up at Carlisle Canoe Livery, 110 State Street, Grayling. Canoes to be used are aluminum 17footers. Carlisle's will provide canoes for those who do not have them. Paddles are to be no more than 8 inches in width.

There will be three age groups: 11-12 year olds, who race to Louie's Landing, a 10 mile run. The 13-14 year olds also race to Louie's Landing. The older group, the 15-17 year olds, race to Stephan's Bridge, a 17 mile run. Awards will be given in each at Carlisle Canoe Livery, at the State Street Bridge,

The kids will start the race race begins to hear the rules read and pick canoes.

Go-Kart Track Expected To Open This Week

If experience is necessary in operating a go-kart track than Bill Johnson, who is building the new one on M-72 West, will more than "fill the bill" because he owns the track in Gaylord.

Bev and Bill Johnson and Mitch and Susie Thompson are presently overseeing the construction of a track which will by this Saturday see as many as 12 cars zooming around the 1/4 mile run. The two couples are partners in the venture and are well known in Crawford County.

Johnson owned and operated the Underground Museum north of Frederic for a number of years and now has the Call of the Wild Museum in Gaylord as well as the adventure golf course and go-kart track there.

Thompson, who lives in Maple Forest Township, is a visitor in stores as he delivers bread for a well known company. He and Johnson are related by marriage and are long time friends.

Johnson said that an innovation that will be in place at the local track will be a bumper boat pond. He commented that the boats are similar to bumper cars except that they play a similar role of smashing into each other in water. That activity will not be ready on opening day this Saturday but is expected to be ready for fun by

The go-kart track is being readied with the same eye to safety as the one in Gaylord, Johnson said. There will be guard rails completely around the track so that the cars will stay on the road, he stated.

THE DECLARATION OF INDEPENDENCE

Part 3 - Creator Endowed Rights

Does government law determine morality? Can we have any assurance of per-, manent rights? Who do we believe when government laws conflict with divine revelation?

The "rights" paragraph of the Declaration of Independence begins: "We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable Rights. that among these are Life, Liberty, and the pursuit of Happiness." It was the belief that God's endowment of certain unalienable Rights were in conflict with the current laws and practice of English government, which led our forefathers to write the Declaration of Independence and fight the Revolutionary War to gain independence. Frederic Bastiat, French statesmen over a 100 years ago, stated this principle well in his book, The Law: "Life, faculties, production in other words, individuality, liberty, property - this is man. And in spite of the cunning of artful political leaders, these three gifts from God precede all human legislation, and are superior to it. Life, liberty, and property do not exist because men have made laws. On the contrary, it was the fact that life, liberty, and property existed beforehand that caused men to make laws in the first place." Bastiat went on to say: "What, then, is law? It is the collective organization of the individual right to lawful defense. Each of us has a natural right - from God - to defend his person, his liberty, and his property."

Were someone trom another planet to evaluate current American government law and practice they might assume our Declaration of Independence really read: "We hold these truths to be scientific, that all persons evolved unequally, that to assure the survival of the fittest, individuals have the right to abortion of their unborn, infanticide of their deformed, euthanasia of their elderly, and personal suicide. Collectively for the survival of our world culture we submit our relative rights of life, liberty and property to the supreme rights of world government to establish a socialistic utopia.

Perhaps you would prefer the words of Harvard behaviorist B.F. Skinner: "Life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness are basic rights. But they are the rights of the individual and were listed as such in a time when the literatures of freedom and dignity were concerned with the aggrandizement of the individual. They have only a minor bearing on the survival of a culture." Secular Humanists reject all Creator endowed rights for cultural rights of evolution.

WORLD OF PROMISE...

The American Bible Society

Sunday

It looks like fun outside. A bright, happy, wonderful day—and a pal to share it with. A world of promise.

As the future unfolds in every life, it looks like a world of promise. Whether it lives up to our expectations depends less on what's outside than what's inside. Human character tends to shape the events and experiences of life.

Our tremendous responsibility as parents is to nurture a human soul, foster its spiritual growth, cultivate the crucial development of our child's character. As a window lets light reach inside, the teaching of moral and religious truth lets faith find its rightful place in each youthful heart. To discover all the Promise in this world the soul must begin by realizing the promises of God

How can pennies a day prevent you from losing everything? No problem.

Auto-Owners Executive Umbrella Liability Policy gives you very broad protection on all your assets from a loss due to lawsuit. And all this coverage costs only pennies a day. A small investment for all you have.

Just ask your "no problem" Auto-Owners agent exactly what he can do for you. You'll find complete protection is no problem.

Vogelsberg Named MAHA Counselor

Michigan Association of Hospital Auxiliaries (MA-HA) officers were elected for 1987-88 at the MAHA annual meeting held recently at the Grand Hotel on Mackinac Island. Serving as Counselor is Joyce Vogelsberg of Grayling. Mrs. Vogelsberg is an associate member of Mercy Hospital Auxiliary. She has served on the MAHA board for five years the last as president.

The MAHA serves as a link between its member auxiliaries, the American Hospital Association, the Michigan Hospital Association and the six districts of MAHA. The 144 member auxiliaries in six districts represent over 45,000 auxilians. In addition to the reported 3,505,821 hours of service to their hospitals in 1986-87, monies donated for equipment and educational purpose totalled $5,286,538.

Local Beauty Salon Offers Golden Touch

By Don Geiss

It can be said that Golden Touch Beauty Salon is interested in the whole person because they have services that literally cover from head to toe.

Owner Susan McCurdy began our tour of the business by taking us to the basement. Far from an old dingy basement, it is one painted in a cooling blue color with palm trees sprouting from the walls. "This," she said, "is the tanning salon and in this section we feature complete privacy."

As we viewed the three tanning rooms it became clear that the rooms did offer that privacy while giving that individual the golden color often not available from an uncooperative sun or in the dead of winter. McCurdy told us that the beds are comfortable and each has a timing device to provide just the right amount of exposure. She also pointed out the separate makeup room associated with the tanning

McCurdy said that in the beginning there was only one bed located in a small room upstairs but it proved to be so popular that during a remodeling in February of 1986 the basement complex was added. McCurdy's story is one of a business that might not have been if others had not encouraged her to take the plunge. After taking a Cosmetology course at Kirtland Community College, McCurdy worked for two years at another salon. At that point, she said, her father Jim Bourrie and Marilyn Longworth encouraged McCurdy to start her own business. She said that now 12½ years later she is still here, loves the work, loves the people, the excitement and expects to be here for quite a while.

On January 13, 1975, the door to the salon near the downtown corner of the I-75 Business Loop and Michigan Avenue was opened for the first time. And now the business employs six hairdressers, a salon coordinator and provides that head

In the beginning McCurdy said, Longworth was with her and had the Vivian Woodward Cosmetic Studio but unfortunately moved to Florida.

The business turned out to be very successful. McCurdy said and by September of 1984 the facility was remodeled and a new front was added in keeping with the Milltown theme. Next came the remodeling of the basement as mentioned in 1986 as well as other changes. Finally in March of this year another complete change in the facility brought the cooling colors and artful treatment of the walls.

McCurdy said that the wall decorating treatment is the work of Terry Dickinson, well known local artist. She noted that when he suggested the wall treatment of the tanning salon she suggested he try just a sample so that she could get an idea of what it would look like. Dickinson surprised her by completing the task as she had originally suggested. She said that the first viewing was exciting and she loved the treatment he had created.

In referring to the training of the staff, McCurdy said that this spring there were two internal training sessions. One was a Redkin Update where a representative of the Redkin Company spent five hours going over the new products of cosmetics, shampoos, conditioners and styling lotions. She noted that the sessions cover what the company is doing and how the salon can better serve its customers.

On another occasion a class was held on Redkins new Deco color which is a tube color. A representative from the company worked with the staff in the morning on the color and then in the afternoon two models per hair stylist came in and there was actual practice working on their hair with the new color.

In the process of remodeling, McCurdy said she chose to limit the size to four stations because the girls often handle from two to three customers at a time. She noted that it means a lot of people are in the salon at one time.

Another innovation that was added was something begun in Europe. She said that new shampoo bowls permit the stylist to work from behind the client. It was always necessary to stand to the side with the old bowls and that was much more difficult to see the entire head and rinse the permanents.

At that point in the conversation, McCurdy mentioned that men increasingly make use of the salon's services. She observed that they give partial "perms" to men and they have some color clients. She said, "They are very much a part of this business and I want them to be part of this business." She noted that they care about themselves and their hair as much as women do.

McCurdy said that she likes to think of Golden Touch as a full service salon. She said we do everything that a normal salon does. "We do the perms, all of the hair cuts, and the colors especially the new Deco color," she noted. The salon also does acrylic nails which is an extension of the person's own nails. She observed that the process uses a tip and then an acrylic coating is applied.

While talking about nails, McCurdy said that the salon also does what she calls an old fashioned manicure where they shape the nails, soften the cuticle and the excess is removed and the nails are polished. In that sense she said some of the ladies are specialized because they do not all give manicures or nail tips.

"I don't like to believe though that our people should be categorized as the one and only," McCurdy said. The salon works as a team, she pointed out when there are problems to solve or a head of hair that we are not certain, none of the staff is afraid to say "well, what do you think?" On the other hand she was quick to point out that a client is free to call and ask for a particular staff member to care for her (his) hair.

McCurdy also mentioned that they do other hair coloring such as regular tinting, frostings, foil colors and paint. She noted that they are also giving what is called a clipper cut where they might even give a mohawk which is cutting the hair on the sides of the head close and leaving a wide swath of hair at the top. She also commented that there are those young men who are asking for the brush cut again.

Chris Holtz

New Chamber Manager Becomes Familiar with Area

After a few weeks on the job as Grayling Regional Chamber of Commerce Office Manager. Christine Holtz believes she is getting close to total familiarity with the area.

Holtz said that her biggest challenge is organizing herself to cover everything necessary in a normal work area from Phoenix, Arizona, she has many fond memories of Crawford County since she camped here many times with relatives. She said that it was so comfortable here that she bought a home while on a vacation.

Among the difficult requests she has received are from individuals who ask about the location of a cabin Although Holtz came to the or resort but do not know the name or any landmark near the site. Another inquiry difficult to answer is from persons who are attempting to find long lost relatives or friends in the area.

Holtz said that the chamber office is open to residents will be happy to help in any manner where C of C services will be of assistance.

A Report to the Supporters of the Committee Opposed to Mandatory Catch & Release Regulations on the Main Stream of the AuSable River System

The Officers and Directors of THE COMMITTEE OPPOSED TO MANDATORY CATCH & RELEASE REGULATIONS believe, unanimously, that you should be accurately informed of just what happened since this organization came into existence in the early Spring of 1986 and what its future plans are.

- 1. The Committee was created to legally oppose the Catch & Release Regulations adopted in February of 1986 by the Natural Resources Commission and were granted a temporary injunction by Judge Alton T. Davis on April 23rd, 1986, which injunction continued the slot size regulations previously in effect upon the involved portion of the AuSable Main Stream in Crawford County for the 1986 trout season.
- 2. The Michigan Attorney General's Office asked Judge Davis to review his ruling and on March 12th, 1987 Judge Davis issued a permanent injunction against the Catch & Release Regulations approved by the NRC in February, 1986 using the following language: "is hereby made permanent until such time as the Department of Natural Resources and/or the Natural Resources Commission can demonstrate by competent, material and substantial evidence that there is, in fact, a biological or ecological need for the so-called 'catch and release' regulations as outlined in Director's Order No. DF1-104.86. To this extent, the Defendents are hereby enjoined and restrained from enforcing the provisions of the aforementioned order."
- 3. Despite that permanent injunction, the DNR issued its 1987 Fishing Regulations Booklet and stated therein that the permanently restrained Catch & Release Regulations would be in effect for the 1987 trout season on the Main Stream of the Au-Sable River.
- 4. The Committee's Attorney called this error to the attention of the Assistant Attorney General handling the case, requesting a press release correcting the error. This request was refused despite the fact the rules are in violation of Judge Davis' permanent injunction. The affected AuSable River area, however, remains properly "signed" as it was during the 1986 trout sea-

- 5. The Attorney General's Office requested a rehearing before Judge Davis which was denied.
- 6. Action has been instituted, we understand, to appeal the case to an appellate court although up to this time there has been no published report that the case will be appealed.
- 7. It is the unanimous will and determination of the Officers and Directors of the Committee Opposed to Mandatory Catch & Release Regulations of the Main Stream of The AuSable River System to contest this appeal as we are confident that is what our supporters would want us to do.
- 8. Your Officers and Directors want to express our deep appreciation and gratitude for your past moral and financial support. Your generosity resulted in just under $20,000 being accumulated to fund this legal action.
- 9. All of our bills are paid, but there will be additional expenses to defend the appeal. Your Officers and Directors are determined to see this fight through to the end and are so committed.
- 10: If you are in agreement with the Committee's intent, and wish to encourage and further support our commitment to carry this fight to the end, we would like to hear from you - make your checks to "The Committee Opposed to Mandatory Catch & Release" and mail your comments to Harrison Goodhue, Secretary-Treasurer, RR 2, Box 2515, Grayling, MI 49738.
